

What are Dementia Go-to-Points (GTPs)?

Dementia Go-To Points (GTPs) are Safe Return Points where members of the public can bring individuals who appear lost, are unable to identify themselves or may be living with dementia.

Why Dementia GTP?

Staff at the GTP are responsible for verifying the individual's identity, contacting their caregiver if known, and facilitating a safe reunion wherever possible.

What Can You Do?

If you see an individual appearing lost, you can approach them to ask if they need any form of assistance such as wayfinding or return home.

If the individual cannot remember the way home or how to reach a destination, you can bring the individual to a nearest GTP.

How to Identify a GTP?

You may look out for GTP decal sticker to identify the venue as a GTP. These are displayed on either the venue's entrance glass doors or windows.

Download the CARA app!

CARA app is able to assist families to rally for community support in locating lost senior and individual living with dementia.

It also has the dementia GTP location feature, where users can view the nearest GTP by turning on the phone's location service.
